

Graduation 2020

As we celebrate the personal milestone in your education journey, we do so in the context of a unique moment in world history. Whether you've had to adjust to new ways of working or studying these past few months, I hope your experiences have taught you something about the importance of resiliency, of community building, and of staying positive in challenging times. These are the attributes that will make all the difference in this time and in the future.

CBC has created a virtual yearbook for the class of 2020 and calling all high school students from across the province to add reflections and experiences during this less than typical graduation year.

CBC would like to hear from individual students, friend groups, entire classes or even a whole high school graduating class. Your submissions can be photos, poetry, essay reflection or even a video.

We want you to get creative! Tell us what you're experiencing, what you are missing out on and what is giving you hope.

Let's hear it for the Grads of 2020!
